

Fringe Festival Show on Body Image Monday, Feb. 25

SUBMITTED BY BETH CARLSON, PSYCHOLOGIST, COUNSELING AND HEALTH PROMOTION

"Blondes, Bikinis, and Barbies!"

Please join Augsburg alumni Tessa Flynn and Tim McVean (and the rest of their cast including author Lauren Spears) for their witty show, "Wrapped in Plastic," an "honest and surreal exploration of body image." The play, originally developed at the Minnesota Fringe Festival, will be presented in East Commons on Monday, Feb. 25, 7:30 - 8:30 p.m. (plus time for Q&A). From the Fringe Festival blog: "It is an insightful, entertaining look at 'fitting in' that is appropriate for adults as well as youth. The story follows Drea, as she is stalked by an image consultant who is willing/eager to make her over into the ideal woman. Aren't we all stalked by the inner image consultant who points out our flaws and helpfully replays events in our life that reinforce our feelings of inadequacy? Written and acted in by Lauren Spears, this show is top notch! Funny, poignant, and touching."

This event is part of Making Peace with Your Body: National Eating Disorders Awareness Week; sponsored by Alumni Relations, the Augsburg Theater Arts Department, and Counseling & Health Promotion. Call x1707 if you have questions
