Public Safety and Facilities Announcements

Minneapolis City Street Parking Restrictions Start TODAY

SUBMITTED BY JANINE R BORCHARDT, ASSISTANT DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC SAFETY, PUBLIC SAFETY

Starting at 8 a.m on Thursday, parking will be prohibited on the even sides of non-snow emergency streets in Minneapolis for the next few months.

Minneapolis officials say the winter parking restrictions are necessary because snow banks are encroaching so far into roads that emergency vehicles could struggle to get through.

If you plan to park on the city streets please visit the city of Minneapolis web site for more resources, including "street look-up" maps of the city with highlighted odd/even sides of streets for your area.

Teaching and Learning

Scholarly Writing Retreat

SUBMITTED BY THERESA L. MARTIN, ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT, CENTER FOR TEACHING AND LEARNING

New Incentive to Attend*
May 17-19, 2010
Dunrovin Retreat Center

Faculty: do you wish you had uninterrupted time to write / work on scholarship? The Committee on Faculty Development and the Scholarly Writers Group is sponsoring a short scholarly working/writing retreat at Dunrovin designed to allow faculty some time away from campus to focus entirely on scholarship. There is no schedule attached to this retreat - it is simply time and space to work on scholarship.

The retreat will take place Monday, May 17 at 1pm (after lunch) through Wednesday, May 19 at 1pm (after lunch). Six openings remain.

*The Academic Dean and the Center for Teaching and Learning will cover the cost of the retreat. There will be no charge for participants
