Fire Extinguisher Training on Oct. 29

SUBMITTED BY KRISTIN HANSEN, ASSISTANT TO THE VICE PRESIDENTS, FINANCE AND ADMINISTRATION

You can learn how to use a fire extinguisher - and actually put out a fire! Training will be held on Oct. 29 (tomorrow) in Lot G at 8 a.m., 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. It only takes 10 minutes, but you may have to wait in a short line. If you wish to participate in this training, please send an email to Sara Kenison, our Environmental Assurance consultant, at sara@env-assurance.com and let her know the time of the training you wish to attend.

Phil Adamo Book-Signing and Reading - October 29

SUBMITTED BY CASEY RAE REGNIER, STUDENT

The Christensen Center for Vocation, the Center for Teaching and Learning, and the Department of History invite you to celebrate the vocation and scholarship of medieval history professor Phil Adamo.

Join us on Wednesday, October 29 from 3:15-5:00 p.m. in Oren Gateway Room 100. Professor Adamo will sign books, which will be available for purchase. Adamo recently published two books, The Medieval Church: A Brief History (2013) and New Monks in Old Habits: The Formation of the Cistercian Monastic Order (2014).

He will also read "Hanging Little Joe on the Suburban Ponderosa, Or, What has the Middle Ages to do with the Old West?" an essay soon to be published in a special edition of the Journal of the West. This essay looks at Adamo's childhood, growing up on the edge of a Texas suburb, and how that experience with the imagined Old West led to his vocation as a medievalist.

Refreshments will be provided. For more information, see <http://www.augsburg.edu/ccv/2014/10/13/philadamovocationandscholarship/>

Latin Honors Working Group

SUBMITTED BY DIANE L PIKE, PROFESSOR, SOCIOLOGY

As notified last week, a group of faculty from each division are examining the current process for awarding Latin Honors. What is the role of Latin Honors at Augsburg? How well is our current system serving students and the institution? What changes if any might be considered? If you would like additional information or have comments or ideas, please contact Diane Pike at pik@augsb.org. Open sessions will be held later but input is welcome at any time.
