

The Augsburg JazzFest is hosting a MASTERCLASS open to ALL this Friday — Come check it out!

Friday, February 24 – 1:50 p.m.

Masterclass led by Steve Wiest, jazz trombone

Hoversten Chapel

And the Augsburg Jazz ensemble will take the stage with Steve Wiest for a swinging evening of jazz later that night at 7:30 p.m..

Do you have your tickets yet?

Every Auggie can have a free ticket for this concert, additional tickets are just $10. Reserve online today (Free ticket code when purchasing – 2017AUGGIEMUSIC).

The sooner you get your “free” ticket reserved, the better — There’s limited space!

Jazz Tickets

📅 February 22, 2017 / ✉ Email a correction for this post

Feb. 23 immigration law update by local attorneys

submitted by garvey@augsborg.edu

Thursday, Feb. 23, Gloria Contreras Edin and Laura Edberg, attorneys with the Contreras law firm, will provide information on executive actions, immigrant rights, and updates on immigration law – and will be available for questions afterwards.

3:30-5:00 p.m., Sateren Auditorium, Anderson Music Building. Need more information – please contact Ann Garvey, garvey@augsborg.edu

📅 February 22, 2017 / ✉ Email a correction for this post

Net-Zero Housewarming

submitted by helgen@augsborg.edu

Interested in low-carbon housing? Come to the open house, Friday, March 3 from 3:00-8:00 p.m., to see a renewably powered house, just three miles from campus. Stewart Herman, visiting fellow in the Christensen Center for Vocation, and his wife Linda have just renovated a 100-year-old house to be “net-zero”—that is, to make more energy than it uses, by extensive use of solar electricity, geothermal heat, and thick insulation. This is perhaps only the second such renovation in the U.S. The house is located at 2021 Harriet Avenue—just off Franklin, two blocks east of Lyndale. RSVPs by February 25 would be appreciated. For further information, contact: herman@cord.edu.

📅 February 22, 2017 / ✉ Email a correction for this post

Activism, Social Justice, and Anti-Blackness in the Asian Community

submitted by thaok@augsborg.edu

Facebook Event Reminder: <https://www.facebook.com/events/601273810072513/>

February 24th, 6-8PM

Marshall Room, Christensen Center

Hmong Women Together has invited Rad Azns to present on Asian and Pacific Islander resistance and resilience, the relevance of social justice in our lives, and the need to challenge and resist anti-blackness in our communities in order to achieve justice and equity for all.

Community Speakers: Rad Azns

“We are a collective of Radical Asians in Minnesota. For us, radical means that we are left of liberal, and seek systemic social change rather than reform. Radical means addressing problems at their root, and holding an expansive view of liberation. We come together in our belief in the transformational potential of Asian American